"Freshness consistent with discovery, identity and affirmation. The singer and the song are one."

- Owen Cordle, Contributor to Jazz Times

"This girl is going to go to the top very quickly. There aren't many around like her."

- Joe Regan, Jr., New York Critic

"Amongst the very best singers in the country today. Strong jazz sensibilities and unforced sophistication."

- Jack Lewin, Producer

Bio:

Garnering praise from musicians and critics alike, jazz singer and songwriter Harmony Keeney has appeared at some of New York City's top venues, including Jazz at Lincoln Center, The Algonquin's Oak Room, and the world-renowned jazz club, Birdland.

Harmony's latest singles include a charming update of the Nina Simone classic, "My Baby Just Cares For Me," as well as originals, "I Was Wrong About You" and "You've Got A Lot Of Nerve," which showcase her songwriting versatility. Produced by Tony DeSare, the recordings and their accompanying videos capture Harmony's unique combination of sophistication, vulnerability, and joyful swing.

Before moving to New York, Harmony spent several years performing in North Carolina, eventually recording her first album, "This Time It's Love."
